ETHEKWINI MUNICIPALITY'S DRAFT GREEN BUILDING INCENTIVE POLICY FOR PUBLIC CONSULTATION

THE eThekweni Municipality aims to encourage the development of buildings that improve the wellbeing of both people and the natural environment, while stimulating green and circular economies. Incentives are a common tool used by governments to stimulate investment in technologies or services.

Durban is a globally recognised city that is leading the climate change agenda in Africa and is the first city in South Africa to finalise a Green Buildings Policy that is aligned to the Paris Agreement. The City is now ready to introduce the green building incentive policy.

The Draft Green Buildings Incentive Policy will positively influence future buildings and contribute to reducing green-house gas emissions.

EThekweni Municipality invites you to share your views on the draft policy that will incentivise the transition of buildings to net zero carbon.
